Happy Birthday
Pauli Murray!!!

Feliz cumpleaños, Pauli
Murray!!!

Pauli Murray era una escritora, activista, cura, poeta, abogada quien vivió como niña en Durham en los decados 1910s y 1920s. La casa en que vivió se queda a unas cuadras de la panadería, y sus libros y su historia han sido para nosotros fuentes importantes de inspiración. Era la primera mujer Afroamericana hacerse cura episcopal. También es una de unos pocos ejemplos de gente quienes vivían con una identidad o género 'queer' durante el primer parte del siglo diecinueve. Durham celebró su cumpleaños ayer con la dedicación de un nuevo señal histórico en la calle Chapel Hill St.

Pauli Murray was an activist, writer, priest, poet, and lawyer who lived in Durham in the 1910s and 1920s. The house in which she grew up is a few blocks from the bakery. She was one of the founders of the National Organization for Women, and the first African American woman to become an episcopal priest. Her books and her story have been important inspirations to us, and she's one of few public examples we have of folks (particularly people of color) figuring out how to live as a gender non-confirming person in Durham in the first part of last century. Durham celebrated her birthday yesterday by dedicating a new historical marker in Chapel Hill Street, and with a poetry contest judged by Alexis Pauline Gumbs! We hope to be able to bring you some of the poetry in a future 'zine.'

We stand united with occupations everywhere against all state repression.
We won't stand for a police state in Chapel Hill!

Solidaridad con las okupas en contra del represión estatal! Basta con el estado policial en Chapel Hill!

This is the mural on the TROSA furniture shop on Foster St. Here is the quote printed on the mural:

"True Community is based upon equality, mutuality, and reciprocity. It affirms the richness of individual diversity as well as the common human ties that bind us together."
-Pauli Murray

Esta dibuja de Pauli Murray se queda en la tienda de TROSA en la calle Foster St.

"Una verdadera comunidad se basa en la igualdad, la mutualidad, y la reciprocidad. Afirma tanto la riqueza de diversidad como nuestros vínculos comunes."
